

The first of these is the fact that the majority of the population of the world is now living in urban areas. This has led to a massive increase in the demand for housing, and a corresponding increase in the price of land. This has led to a massive increase in the price of land, and a corresponding increase in the price of land.

The second of these is the fact that the majority of the population of the world is now living in urban areas. This has led to a massive increase in the demand for housing, and a corresponding increase in the price of land. This has led to a massive increase in the price of land, and a corresponding increase in the price of land.

The third of these is the fact that the majority of the population of the world is now living in urban areas. This has led to a massive increase in the demand for housing, and a corresponding increase in the price of land. This has led to a massive increase in the price of land, and a corresponding increase in the price of land.

The fourth of these is the fact that the majority of the population of the world is now living in urban areas. This has led to a massive increase in the demand for housing, and a corresponding increase in the price of land. This has led to a massive increase in the price of land, and a corresponding increase in the price of land.

The fifth of these is the fact that the majority of the population of the world is now living in urban areas. This has led to a massive increase in the demand for housing, and a corresponding increase in the price of land. This has led to a massive increase in the price of land, and a corresponding increase in the price of land.

The sixth of these is the fact that the majority of the population of the world is now living in urban areas. This has led to a massive increase in the demand for housing, and a corresponding increase in the price of land. This has led to a massive increase in the price of land, and a corresponding increase in the price of land.

